Legal Solutions Delivered

We consider your business needs and objectives, then set our services to support those goals. Our value-added legal solutions address issues common to growing technology companies. The solutions are tailored to your industry, your specialty, your company. These “solution sets” integrate legal knowledge from across the firm to provide complete answers to mission-critical legal concerns. We are among the nation’s leading law firms handling company formations and venture capital financing. We are veterans at intellectual property protection, licensing and strategic alliances to support intelligent growth. From employee compensation to board of directors matters, we offer sound operational advice.

Business Development Accelerator

Technology companies embody the merger of good ideas with business resources. We nurture that spark and share the flame. To serve our high-growth clients beyond the boundaries of traditional legal services, we created the Strategic Development group, a business development accelerator that assists you with financial and operational needs. The group provides our clients with introductions to potential investors, executive management, board members and strategic partners. We connect you with targeted professional service providers. Our experienced team works with companies to develop business plans and presentation materials. We help you get those great ideas in front of decision-makers to set your course for growth.

Multi-disciplinary Capability

Our Corporate Technology Practice lawyers want to be your in-house legal resource. We can provide a broad variety of legal services, including securities, tax, employee benefits, mergers and acquisitions, real estate, litigation, intellectual property and employment. For each technology client, we draw upon the full resources of the firm to create a multidisciplinary team of lawyers with knowledge and resources to handle the full spectrum. For more than two decades, we’ve been enabling technology firms to innovate
