

MMM Named One of Georgia's Best Places To Work

Atlanta (November 3, 2008) – Georgia Trend, the Magazine of Business and Politics, includes Morris, Manning & Martin, LLP on its 2008 Honor Roll of the Best Places to Work in Georgia.

The magazine's editorial staff selected the winners from more than 400 nominations submitted by employees from businesses, government offices, educational institutions and nonprofits.

"We wanted to know where the best places to work in Georgia are, so we asked the experts – the employees," says Georgia Trend Publisher Neely Young.

"We simply asked employees to tell us what makes their company the best," says Georgia Trend Editor Susan Percy. "And they did. We didn't just count the number of nominations, we evaluated what each company's employees had to say about where they work and made our selections accordingly."

The firm is one of only two law firms on the list of 15 Honor Roll companies, which are featured in the magazine's November 2008 issue, and available online at www.georgiatrend.com.

MMM has a democratic atmosphere in which everyone's job is valued; partners vote on each other's compensation to ensure fairness, and associates have input into management decisions. Everyone receives generous benefits, plus management encourages both a positive atmosphere and community service work.

"We work hard for our clients, and we also work hard to make sure our people are happy," says Robert E. Saudek, Managing Partner. "It's nice to have this dedication recognized."
